

1-TO-1 AI COACHING FOR FINANCE LEADERS

Your deals. Your judgement. A practical AI plan.

A private leadership lesson on what AI means for corporate finance and advisory work: faster synthesis, sharper preparation, confidentiality risk, and how to lead AI use without false confidence.

SECTOR ISSUES

- Document overload - data rooms, IMs, models and reports need faster first-pass sensemaking.
- Uncertain deal conditions - clients expect sharper preparation and clearer questions.
- Risk is asymmetrical - one careless AI use can damage confidentiality and trust.

IN YOUR 1-TO-1 LESSON

- Map your best deal uses - summaries, issue logs, meeting briefs and question lists.
- Practise first-pass workflows - useful for synthesis, never a substitute for diligence.
- Leave with verification rules - what can go into tools, what must be checked and who owns the call.

This is coaching, not a tool demo. You work on your own judgement-heavy advisory tasks and leave with a practical AI vision for faster preparation without casual risk-taking.

A coached route from overload to better calls

AI is strongest when it helps you see structure faster. The lesson coaches you through where that advantage belongs, where human review is essential, and what your next steps should be.

Taught and advised leaders at Google, Microsoft, SAP, Adobe and Vodafone. Writing on AI in Fast Company and The Guardian.
